1 PRIMATE PERSONALITY TRAIT ASSESSMENT

Primate personality assessments can be made with this questionnaire by assigning a numerical score for all of the personality traits listed on the following pages.

Make your judgments on the basis of your own understanding of the trait guided by the short clarifying definition following each trait.

The primate's own behaviors and interactions with other primates should be the basis for your numerical ratings.

Use your own subjective judgment of typical primate behavior to decide if the primate you are scoring is above, below, or average for a trait. The following seven point scale should be used to make your ratings:

1. Displays either total absence or negligible amounts of the trait.
2. Displays small amounts of the trait on infrequent occasions.
3. Displays somewhat less than average amounts of the trait.
4. Displays about average amounts of the trait.
5. Displays somewhat greater than average amounts of the trait.
6. Displays considerable amounts of the trait on frequent occasions.
7. Displays extremely large amounts of the trait.

Please give a rating for each trait even if your judgment seems to be based on a purely subjective impression of the primate and you are somewhat unsure about it. Indicate your rating by placing a cross in the box underneath the chosen number.

Finally, do not discuss your rating of any particular primate with anyone else. As explained in the handout accompanying this questionnaire, this restriction is necessary in order to obtain valid reliability coefficients for the traits.

2 PRIMATE PERSONALITY TRAIT ASSESSMENT

Primate's full name: _____ Date (Day/Month/Year): _____

Rater's full name: _____

FEARFUL: Subject reacts excessively to real or imagined threats by displaying behaviors such as screaming, grimacing, running away or other signs of anxiety or distress.
